
TABLETOP EXERCISES

The Drinking Water Program (DWP) and Woodard and Curran (W&C) are sponsoring a series of tabletop exercises for public water systems to practice their emergency response procedures with the DWP. Late last year, W&C conducted a survey of water systems, organizations, and government agencies. Based on the survey, the DWP Emergency Response Plan was updated with the purpose of providing consistent support to drinking water systems during drinking water emergencies. Take advantage of this opportunity to prepare and practice for water system emergencies.

REMEMBER!

Bring a copy of your emergency response plan so you can practice responding to drinking water emergencies and test your plan with the DWP's plan. If you have one in need of updating, or if you don't yet have one, you will still benefit from the exercise and the relationships established.

DRINKING WATER EMERGENCY TABLETOP

Through a tabletop exercise facilitated by Woodard & Curran, you will be able to practice responding to drinking water emergencies and will gain an understanding of the Drinking Water Program's role and responsibility during a drinking water emergency. In addition, the exercise will allow you to test your emergency response with the Drinking Water Program and participating local emergency responders.

There is no fee for participating in this exercise. Attendees will receive a certificate for 5 Training Contact Hours (TCHs). Lunch will be provided.
